"Efficient universal education is the mother of national prosperity."

So said Emerson one hundred years ago and so say all those who are vitally interested in our country today. We of Elgin High School who are profiting by a carefully planned educational system are realizing more than ever that tomorrow's world depends on today's education.

We know that we must become intelligent, useful citizens: that as well as preparing for a life occupation and home making, we must prepare and train ourselves in the social graces and in culture so that our country reaches that place of fine leadership in the world for which we hope.

Perhaps in the years to come this book will help us understand what this school has done with its broad curriculum and its varied activities to prepare us for that tomorrow.

to the boys

of Elgin High School who would have received their diplomas with us, but now are gone to serve their country, we dedicate the 1944 Maroon.

senior story

The Class of 1944 entered Elgin High School in 1940 and soon became active in school functions. They began to organize in their first year. Arlie Rein was elected president; Walter Rust, vice-president; Jack Burmaster, secretary; and Paul Ciraulo, treasurer. Miss Elsie Fletcher was their adviser.

A class council, composed of homeroom representatives and class officers, was formed. This council was active throughout the four years. The class constitution was written by this group.

During their sophomore year they numbered 460. They were the largest sophomore class that E.H.S. had ever had. They participated in the tuberculosis test, which was given by the Kane County Medical Association. Officers were Walter Rust, president; Nelly Ventress, vice-president; and Bill Snellgrove, secretary.

The juniors, with their kelly green and white class sweaters, began to accept new responsibilities. The class was lead by Lloyd Rudolph, president; Nancy Meagher, vice-president; and Carolyn Hameister, secretary. The class play this year was "Ever Since Eve" and was presented in May. The class pennant, designed by Carolyn Hameister, was presented. The junior year came to a close with the junior-senior prom.

This last year was a busy and eventful one. The class was lead by Austin Hansen, president; Bill Snellgrove, vice-president; and Nan Jean Hansen, secretary. For their service project, the class cleaned all the old banners.

The seniors managed the selling of refreshments during the football games and sponsored a class party in the boys gym. Tuberculosis tests were again taken by the seniors.

In November the class play, "The Late Christopher Bean," was staged. Many seniors benefited by Career Day and vocational guidance lecturers.

Green and white carnations were chosen as the class flowers and "Onward, Forward, Upward" as their motto.

“ever since eve”

The Junior Class Play given in May, 1943, was "Ever Since Eve." It is a story of highschool students and the trouble in which they find themselves. student council

The purpose of the Student Council is:

- (a) To promote school spirit and encourage loyalty to our school.
- (b) To provide for the correlation and supervision of the student activities.
- (c) To work for the general welfare of the school.

Its members are four officers, home-room representatives, and class presidents. Two members of the faculty, Miss Pratt and Mr. Renner, act as advisers.

This year commissions were formed to study various problems. Every member of the council is assigned a commission, and each commission has a student chairman and a faculty adviser. After these problems have been studied, they are brought to the Student Council for suggestions.

The commissions are the Assembly, Research, Victory Corps, Safety, Social, and the Activity Ticket.

The Assembly Commission has as its adviser Miss Biersach. Through this commission assemblies are studied in regard to their educating value, and the type of assemblies to be presented at E.H.S. is decided upon. After the presentation of each assembly, the commission studies its good and bad points so as to improve the future ones. Roberta Lawrence is student chairman.

Officers. Seated: Mr. Renner, C. Hammeister, president; Miss Pratt. Standing: N. Romeis, treasurer; C. Peterson, vice-president; V. Dailey, secretary.

Home Room Representatives

The Research Commission writes to different schools and carries on research for various problems. A handbook is being composed for students. Mr. Dixon is adviser and Chick Peterson is chairman.

Mr. Larsen is the adviser and Jack Burmaster the student chairman of the Safety Commission. They study problems on safety both in and around the school premises. A safety booklet was published for the purpose of helping the students to be more safety minded.

Under the Victory Corps Commission problems of patriotic concern are studied. A continuous Stamp Drive has been established and a Victory Week project was sponsored at which $10,000 worth of stamps and bonds were sold. Mr. Cartwright is faculty adviser and Fred Hammerschmidt is student chairman.

Assembly Commission. J. Dueringer, B. Manley, D. Turnquist, R. Lawrence, chairman, D. Albert, D. Graffana. Not pictured: B. Farney, M. Drought.

The Social Commission with Miss Kettering as adviser studied and sponsored all school dances. Joan Apgar is chairman.

The possibility of having an activity ticket which would include activities of the school, such as publication, sports, dances, etc., is being considered. The Activity Ticket Commission has Mr. Renner as adviser and Nan Meagher as student chairman.

The Student Council has sponsored other projects such as the Infantile Paralysis Drive, Junior Red Cross, T. B., and the Thanksgiving collection. A new constitution was written this year, also.

Besides the four officers, the class presidents—Austin Hansen, Howie Foell, Wally Graf, and Bob Farney—and Bill Rovelstad, Pat Dougherty, Roberta Lawrence, and Jack Haligas make up the executive council.

Elgin High School is very fortunate to have supervisors who have the directive ability, initiative, and spirit of cooperation which are necessary in a school of this size. Mr. Dixon, our principal, is constantly striving to improve conditions at Elgin High School for the students and faculty.

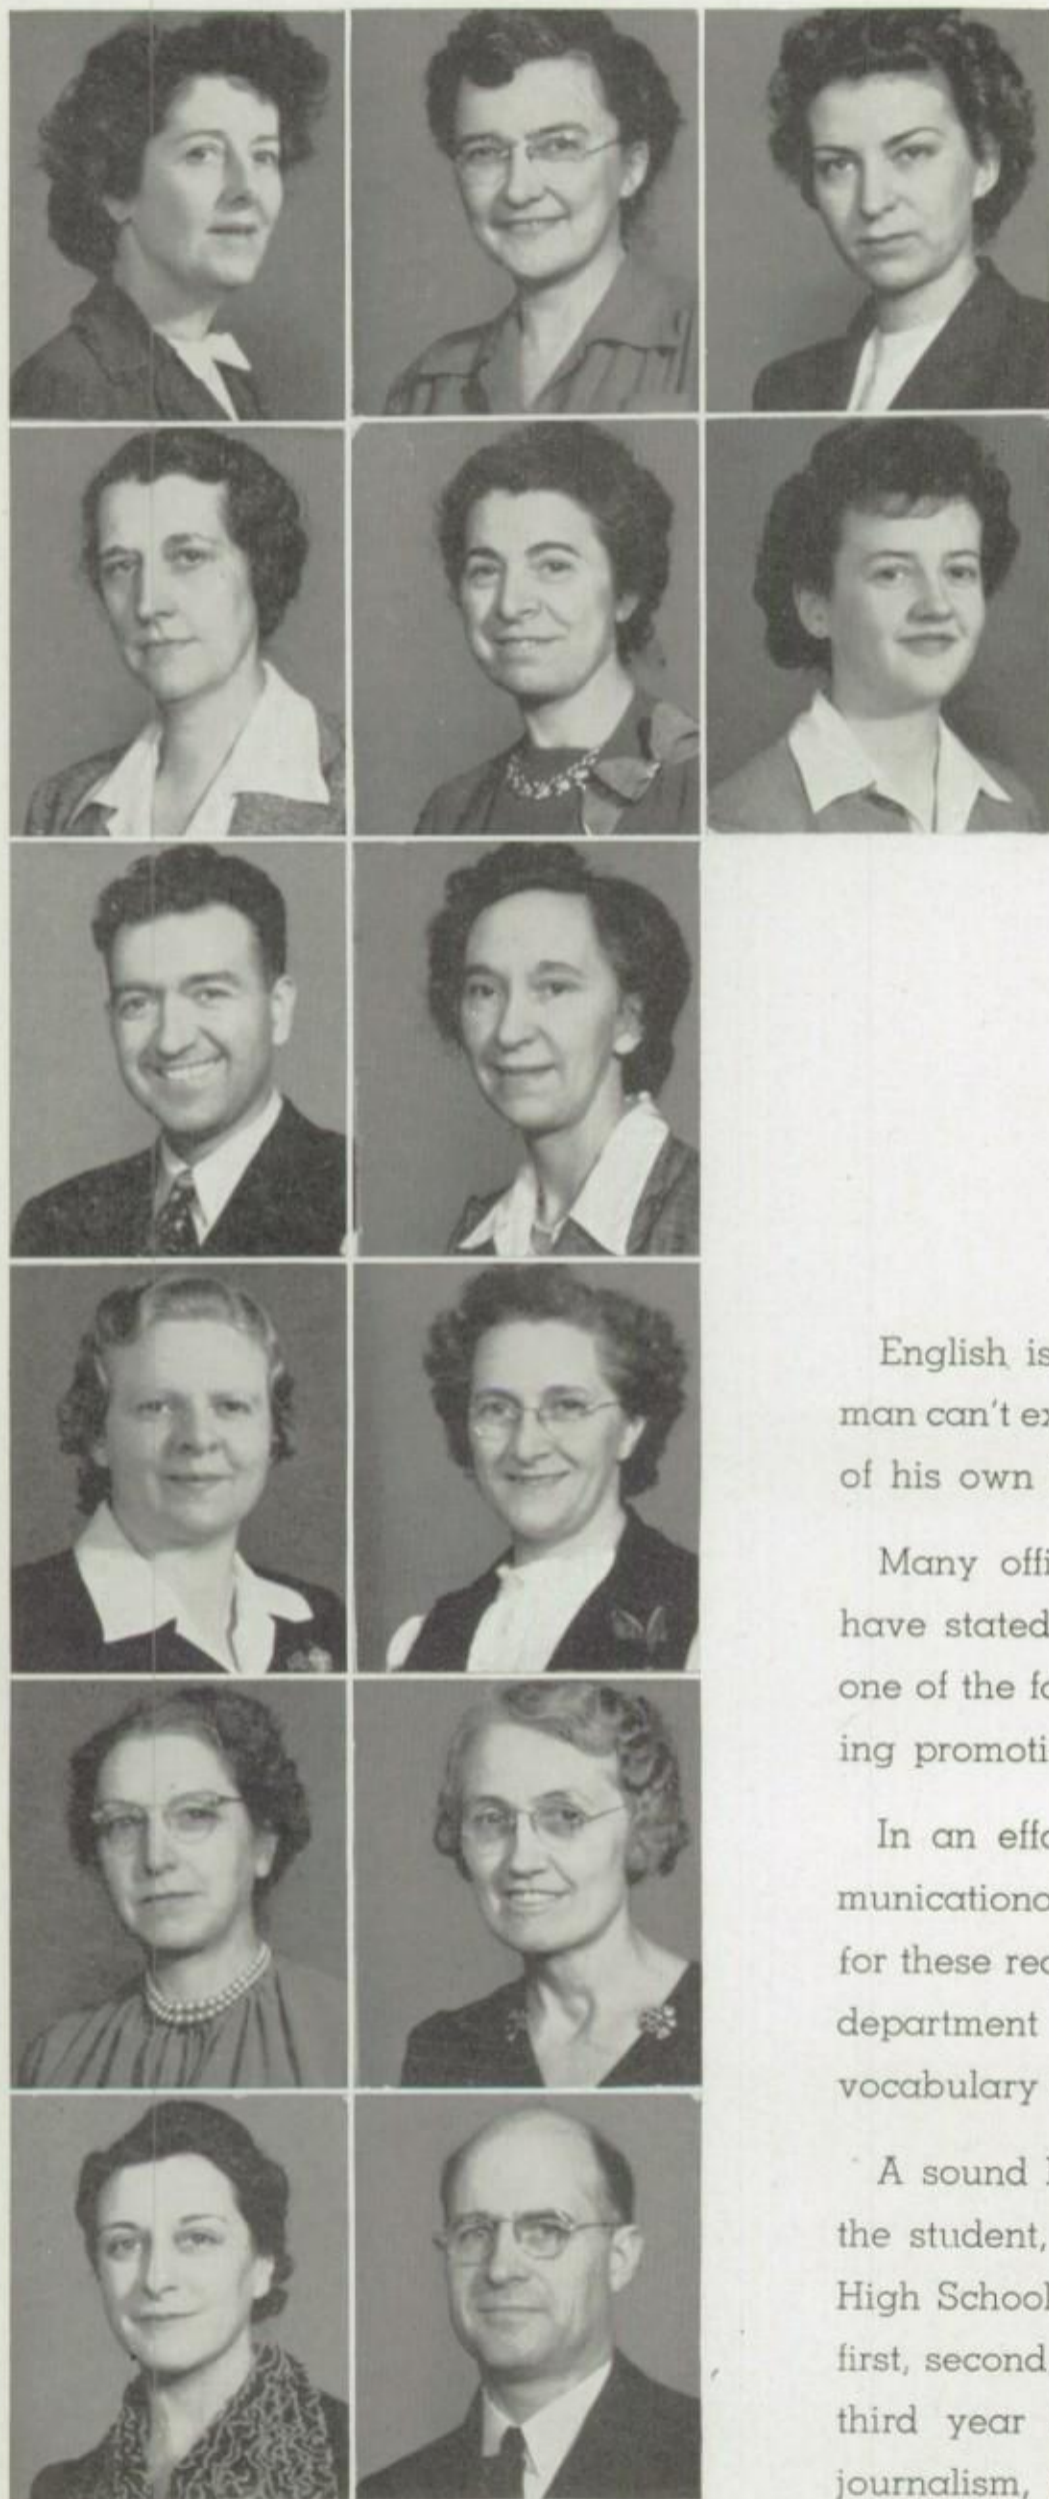

The position of assistant principal and boys adviser is held by Mr. Larsen. He is always willing to give counsel to those boys who seek his guidance. Miss Elma Engelbrecht, able and cooperative director of student adjustment and girls adviser, has personal conferences with the students to assist them in solving difficult problems and gives advice to all girls who seek it.

The administrative council is composed of those already mentioned above; Mr. Orrin Thompson, representing the all-school administration; the department heads—Mr. R. S. Cartwright, Mr. J. A. Krafft, Miss Hazel Linkfield, Miss Wilda Logan, Mr. Charles L. Morrill, Miss Margaret Newman, Miss Adah Pratt, who also represents Student Council, Mr. P. E. Taylor, Mr. E. C. Waggoner; class sponsors—Miss Elsie Fletcher, Mr. E. C. Waggoner, Mr. Walter Wilson, Miss Mary Peters; and classroom teachers elected by the faculty—Miss Mary Smith, Miss Hortense Wilson, and Miss Glennie Morrow. This council meets weekly and helps plan important school activities.

English is the basic subject for all studies; for if a man can't express himself well and has little knowledge of his own language, he can not be very successful.

Many officials in the armed forces of our country have stated that English, vocabulary in particular, is one of the factors seriously considered when determining promotions.

In an effort to fit students not only for their communicational needs in business and in college but also for these requirements in the armed forces, the English department this year has laid added emphasis on vocabulary and other reading and writing skills.

A sound English program is of the utmost value to the student, and such a program is stressed at Elgin High School. Three years of English taken during the first, second, and fourth year are required. During the third year a student may take speech, dramatics, journalism, or literary types.

physical education and health

The physical education department has worked out a well-rounded plan that will keep students physically fit and mentally alert to meet arising problems of life.

In the boys gym classes the boys learn the different commands and drill exercises. They also receive a little training in basketball, boxing, tumbling, wrestling, and baseball. At different times throughout the semester, tests are given to determine if the boys are in good condition; for the most part they are in very good condition. The gym classes meet three times a week for underclassmen and daily for seniors.

The girls physical education program has changed from a three-year course of two hours per week to four full years of three hours a week. The gym classes offer an interesting program of calisthenics, sports, rhythm exercises, and modern folk dancing.

In addition to gym work, courses in health are offered to freshmen and sophomores; first aid to juniors, and home nursing for seniors. If the girls qualify in the last two courses, they receive American Red Cross Standard Certificates.

The prevention of disease in the Elgin Schools is stressed by Mrs. Mabel E. Silliman, supervising nurse, and her assistant Mrs. Marie Schramm.

On January 11 the Kane County Medical Association offered a free tuberculosis test to any teacher or senior wanting it. The results have proved helpful to many students.

This year the science department has strived to make its program more concentrated and better fitted for both wartime and peace time needs. Fundamental science is becoming more valuable to the individual who will immediately take his place in the industrial world after graduation and to the student who will enter college or any branch of the armed forces. The physical sciences, such as chemistry and physics, are now used as the basis for teaching these fundamentals.

All freshmen are required to take general science, a study of our environment and its effects on us. It also includes a general study of all the sciences.

The composition and functions of plant and animal life are studied in biology.

Biology is an important foundation for the study of medicine, as well as healthful, everyday living.

Physiography is a study of natural resources, meteorology, land locations, and rock formations. Some time is also spent in learning the principles of global map-reading.

In chemistry the student learns about matter and its changes. In the laboratory he proves for himself the reliability of facts established by someone else instead of accepting as infallible everything he learns.

The principles and practical applications of heat, light, mechanics, sound, and electricity are taught in physics. This training will benefit the student in all types of work.

Are you planning to be a bombardier, a meteorologist, an astronomer, an architect, or an engineer? If you intend to follow any one of these vocations, you must take mathematics. Mathematics furnishes a good foundation for any type of work.

The mathematics department offers business arithmetic, algebra, plane and solid geometry, and trigonometry. Business arithmetic affords excellent training for the students interested in bookkeeping. Elementary, advanced, and college algebra furnish the fundamentals for more advanced mathematical studies. Geometry is the study of the properties and measurements of lines, angles, surfaces, and solids.

An intensive program of the practical applications of mathematical laws and theorems is offered to students who soon plan to join the armed forces.

Advanced slide rule instructions are also offered to the students under the direction of Miss Mary Peters.

business

Elgin High School's business department offers typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business law, salesmanship, and office training. Through these many students find the type of work they are most interested in doing. Upper classmen are employed in part time jobs after school as typists, stenographers, bookkeepers, and other office assistants. Approximately 96 per cent of the business students have work experience in conjunction with their business subjects.

The department also sponsors a distributive education program, which is made up of students employed in downtown retail establishments, and also directs a temporary employment bureau for the entire school to help meet the local man power shortage.

The highschool treasury serves as a deposit agency for money from clubs and school activities. Orders for checks to pay bills are drawn on the business treasurer, Mr. L. V. Robinson.

The recording of victory tax, monthly reports for government administration tax, reports to each of the one hundred different school funds, money obligations connected with the basketball games and tournaments are only a few of the responsibilities of this phase of business.

home economics

The two foremost objectives of the home economics department are to develop the student's appreciation of home making responsibilities and to familiarize her with the most effective usage of those things found in both home and community.

In the foods classes the necessity of a balanced diet is stressed. The girls are instructed in the planning, purchasing, and serving of point-saving meals.

Students who take clothing are instructed in the quality and texture of materials; they are taught the importance of style and color in dress. Besides sewing garments for the Junior Red Cross, the clothing classes have dressed dolls representing famous women of the world and also in the different uniforms of the women's armed services.

"Learn to do by doing" could well be the motto of the Home Problems Classes. The girls learn how to make new clothes from old, knit for the Red Cross, make candy and cookies to send to the boys in service, and plan and help prepare nourishing point-saving meals in the cafeteria.

industrial arts

The great demand for skilled and semi-skilled help during the present emergency has greatly emphasized the importance of industrial arts. We have cooperated with local industrial, state, and federal agencies in providing the type of training needed to further the war effort. Young people with shop experience have been in great demand and have been found most satisfactory.

When this war is successfully concluded, the people with mechanical ability and training will find many new fields and opportunities available, which at present are unknown to the general public.

The study of vocational agriculture in Elgin High School is concerned with the practicalities of learning to farm as well as learning how to farm. The theories studied in the classroom are correlated with actual practices on the farm, and in this way the directed and planned discussions are of more significance and value.

A program of directed or supervised farm practice provides for the application of knowledge and skills as an essential and final step in rounding out a boy's training. Records are kept of all project work by the student, thus adding to his experience and aiding him materially in determining wherein he was successful and wherein he must modify or alter his operations. Then, too, some consideration is directed toward arousing avocational or leisure-time activities.

Vocational guidance is incorporated into the study of agriculture in order that each pupil may derive a greater benefit from the skills he masters. Thus his education for economic productiveness will be more efficient and fruitful.

social science

The aim of this department is to give the students an understanding of past and present civilizations and to present courses that will prepare them for the future.

The social science department offers to the students a well-rounded group of studies. In the psychology classes the students are given aptitude tests to determine in which vocation they are interested. They also study many personal problems of psychological principles.

In the world history and modern history classes courses are offered which will acquaint the student with the activities of mankind from the beginning of recorded time to the present day. American history classes study the development of our country and attempt to gain a better understanding of our government and a fuller appreciation of the rights and privileges which are ours. All the history classes have recently placed more emphasis on Latin America and the Far East.

Through the study of economics the student is given a better understanding of the economic and business world. He also learns the fundamental problems of consumption so that he may be a more intelligent consumer of economic goods. He is also taught how various types of economic organizations operate and how our capitalistic system functions.

The purpose of social problems is to develop an understanding of the major problems of society through wide reading of current material and frank, free class discussions.

foreign language

Through international communication and transportation the United States is being brought closer to the other nations of the world, thus making a knowledge of foreign languages play a more important part in understanding the work.

Four foreign languages are offered in Elgin High School, each making its particular contribution to the student. Some background in German helps a great deal in music, the ministry, science, aviation, and nursing.

French is often desired for art, architecture, music, and science. With the stressing of friendly relations with South America, Spanish is valuable in Pan-American business and communication.

Latin is considered the basic language for such professions as law and medicine.

fine arts

The music department offers many opportunities to students who are interested in instrumental or choral work. This year a semester course in harmony was offered. In the orchestra, band, a cappella choir, and glee clubs, students find valuable training and have the opportunity to learn good music. Throughout the year the music department keeps the public's morale high by furnishing entertaining assemblies and concerts.

Art for everyday living is offered by our high school art department. Besides learning the basic elements of art, the students endeavor to develop their creative ability and to learn to appreciate beauty in all its forms. The art department furnishes many murals and other art work to help make the school interesting and beautiful.

The library is under the supervision of Miss Ethel Hoaglund, assisted by a student library staff. Miss Hoaglund keeps the students constantly equipped with the newest books and magazines.

The sight-saving department under the direction of Miss Stoehr aids students in studying subjects that might have been impossible. Special lighting, adjustable tops on desks, a recorder, and a typewriter with large letters are the equipment belonging to this department.

Mrs. Amelia Tetzner has charge of the 240 study hall each period.

administrative assistants

"Is it too late to put this announcement in today's bulletin?"

"Will you give me Patricia Johnson's record for last year?"

"May I have an admit card for last Friday?"

These are common questions in the Elgin High School offices.

Miss Evelyn L. Boettcher, registrar and Mr. Dixon's personal secretary, gives inestimable service in executing the administrative duties. Each semester she writes out a program for every high school student; all records and files are kept under her proficient system. Miss R. Carliss Carlson is her capable assistant.

The main purpose of the attendance office under the direction of Mrs. Kathryn Lundeen is to encourage students to appreciate the excellent opportunities that the school has to offer and to discourage avoidable absence. All attendance records are kept here, and all excuses for tardiness and absences are issued.

Miss Martha Jones assists Miss Engelbrecht in keeping working sheets for the student and the employer.

The directive work done in these branch offices enable our school to operate at a high degree of efficiency.

The Junior Red Cross is the American Red Cross in the schools. This year the Elgin High School Chapter boasts a one-hundred-per-cent membership. The membership drive collections were in turn contributed to the National Children's Fund, which gives help to children in all parts of the world.

One hundred small garments were made by the clothing classes; and puzzle books, short story books, holiday menus, and tray favors were created by the art classes. The

Library Club

The library club assists students in finding books, magazine articles, and other material that is available in the library.

The club consists of sixteen members, and three meetings are held each semester. Two or three members are in the library each period to discharge and shelve the books.

The chief social activity of this season was an educational and enjoyable field trip to the Chicago Public Library.

Betty Trent acted as president this year, with Robert Paulus as secretary, and Donald Detloff as treasurer. Miss Ethel Hoaglund is sponsor.

Cafeteria Workers

Students working in the cafeteria not only help prepare and serve the meals, but also help plan the meals and budget them.

This group has learned to serve nourishing well-balanced meals on the few points that they are allowed. They learn how to select wisely and serve the correct way. They have served luncheons and three evening dinners, in addition to helping at noon.

Each of them made a booklet explaining and illustrating food costs, marketing, menu planning, salesmanship, and development of personality in serving the public.

Mrs. Parlasca is in charge of the cafeteria.

Projection Club

Showing educational movies to different high school classes and grade schools, mending torn film, repairing projecting machines, and showing films during the halves of the basketball games were a few services rendered to Elgin High School by the Projection Club.

The boys also managed all the public address systems in the school. This spring they made possible the broadcasting of the Champaign Tournament basketball games to students remaining at school. The tense, exciting moments of those games will also be remembered, since recordings were made.

Their most outstanding service was the making of Elgin High School's film, "Elgin High School in Action." This film is 1,300 feet long and is in technicolor. It was prepared so that new shots can be added. Sound is also connected with this film.

The members of the club are A. Mink, B. Graf, W. Voss, W. Williams, B. Dearlove, B. Scheitlin. Mr. Waggoner is their sponsor.

girls club

Every girl who enters E.H.S. automatically becomes a member of the Girls Club. The purpose of the club is to bring about cooperation and friendliness among all the girls. It also aims to be of service, not only to the girls, but to the school and community as well. The business of the club is decided on by the cabinet which is made up of representatives from all four classes.

The big project for the year has been the furnishing of room 139 as a lounge for the girls during the noon hour. "Cookies for the Rookies" was another project that was done in cooperation with the Junior Red Cross, as was also the towel square project for navy hospitals.

Once a month the girls have an assembly in the auditorium, at which they have presented style shows, skits, and a Christmas program.

Each year the upper classmen give a party for the freshmen to help the new girls get acquainted.

The National Forensic League helps to sponsor and stimulate interest in all speech and debate. There are four degrees which students can work for through participation in debate, dramatic reading, humorous reading, oratorical declamation, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and verse speaking.

The first is the degree of merit, which counts for twenty points; the second for honor, counting fifty points; the third for excellence, which counts for 100 points; and the fourth for special distinction, counting for 150 points.

At the debate tournament at LaPorte, Indiana, the debate squad tied for first place with six wins and no losses, and placed second in both the Elgin tournament and the Rockford meets. In the Augustana invitational debate tournament E.H.S. tied for fourth place, competing against twenty-two schools from Illinois and Iowa.

In March the Elgin High N.F.L. chapter, sponsored by Mr. Cartwright, was awarded a trophy by the National Forensic League and was honored as the best and most active chapter in the state of Illinois.

Several individuals went down to the state tournament.

N. F. L. Chapter Officers

The Frosh-Soph squad, composed of fifteen members, meets daily with Mr. Shelby. They have appeared before various community organizations and grade schools and have held practice debates with other schools as well as the varsity team.

In the West Rockford invitational tournament they won first place, and in the East Aurora tournament they placed second. Marge Russell, Audrey Grupe, Lois Ganter, and Helen Blackman have one hundred or more N.F.L. points to their credit already.

Can you imagine what E.H.S. would be like without a band playing at our football and basketball games, marching in our parades, and thrilling us in assemblies? Of course you can't. And this year the band has again put in a busy and successful year under the direction of Mr. Robert Garritson.

They participated in the Community Chest parade, the Army show, and other parades. They held fall, winter, and spring concerts, and played at the Universalist Church April 30. In their concerts the band has played such selections as the "Unfinished Symphony,"

"Pathetique Symphony," and music from "Hansel and Gretel." "Stardust," "Getting Sentimental Over You," and "Stormy Weather" are only three of the many popular numbers the band has played.

Because of transportation difficulties and other problems, there was no Illinois Band Contest this year. However the band did take part in the presentation of the Army-Navy "E" Award at McGraw's.

choral groups

A Cappella

The A Cappella choir is the top singing group of the school and is made up of juniors and seniors. Under the able direction of Clifford Thomas, A Cappella has appeared at concerts, assemblies, Christmas and church programs, and local clubs. The foremost project of this year was the singing of the "Song of America" on October 26.

The officers are as follows: president, Keith Montgomery; vice-president, Roberta Lawrence; secretary, Marian Bogart; and librarian and student manager, Ray Kenyon.

Freshman Ensemble

The main purpose of the Freshman Ensemble is to encourage the freshmen to sing. From this group of students, whose personnel changes each semester, come the students that make up the major divisions in all the singing groups. Helen Blackman acted as president this year, with Mr. Thomas as director.

Treble Choir

Treble Choir is the next stage up the musical ladder. The choir is composed of freshmen and sophomore girls and is under the guidance of Mr. Byrus Hall.

Aeolian

Aeolian is the top girls singing group and has sung for girls assemblies and various clubs. It has also sung with the A Cappella for Christmas Vespers and in the presentation of the "Song of America."

It may be said that Aeolian recruits girls for A Cappella since this group is the last stop before entering the top organization.

Publications Board

publications board

The Publications Board directs the policies of the highschool publications and approves the budgets and expenditures. The board is made up of the principal; the faculty advisers, editors, and business managers of the publications; and a Student Council representative.

The annual publications dinner was held early in May, served by Mrs. Parlasca and the cafeteria group. Besides a talk of publishing interest, awards were presented.

This year Charles Jacobs and Curtis Gene Thompson represented the "Mirror"; Grace Szosz and Jacob Pollack, the "Maroon"; Shirley Webb and Robert Paulus, "Spring Reigns." Carolyn Hameister was chosen as representative for the Student Council. Miss Brandes, Miss Newman, Miss Stoffregen, and Mr. Dixon were the faculty members on the board.

Under the helpful guidance of Miss Margaret Newman, adviser, and Miss Hazel Linkfield, assistant, the Maroon editorial staff manages the entire editing of the annual. This year several problems presented themselves that had to be solved before the book was ready to go to press. Among these were the shortage and rising cost of paper, printing, and supplies. However a plain, but attractive, inexpensive yearbook was completed.

Students who composed the editorial staff were Grace Szosz, editor-in-chief; Barbara Nelson and Margaret Damisch, associate editors; Ray Giddens, student photographer; Richard Damisch, layout artist; Dick Swenson, cartoonist; Carol Rhoades and Lloyd Rudolph, sports editors; Blanche Saxe, Mary Jane Klinger, Mary Lane Hubbell, Annette Schultz, Mary Lou Rohling, Mary Lund, and Margaret Danielek, assistant editors; Carol Sill, Evelyn Steinmann, Elaine Lagerstrom, typists; and Joan Havercroft, Marilyn Pierson, Marilyn Hopp, Robert Creed, Lucille Siems, Neil Hebeisen, and Mary Ann Stewart.

While this group worked industriously on material for the book, the business staff was not idle. An assembly program launched their campaign for student subscriptions, while Mr. Morrill's salesmanship class successfully sold over one hundred fifty patrons for the book. Jacob Pollack was business manager, and Doev Cohen was associate business manager.

During the past year first Charles Jacobs and then Shirley Westerbeck served as editors-in-chief and Gene Thompson as business manager of the "Mirror." Page editors were Shirley Westerbeck and Helen Pata. The sports staff included Walt Grisham, editor, assisted by Bill Warner, Gene Termini, Bill S. Warner, Jim Rager, and Mitch Weisner. Special writers were Norm Fugate, Joan Eggert, Sid Herman, Pat McCarthy, and Shirley Webb. The reporters were Jackie Dolby, Joan Havercroft, Roy Morkemo, Wanda Engle, and Gwen Rosier.

This year the record for the most subscriptions was set with about 1550 subscriptions being sold to students. About 125 copies of each issue of the "Mirror" were mailed to servicemen, and 20 issues were mailed to people working or otherwise.

Some of the credit for this year's successful paper should go to the advertising staff, which was composed of Emma Lou Phillips, Marilyn Massa, Ted Iverson, George Peek, Arlene Raywood, Joan Collins, Bob LaForce, and George Meadows. The circulation manager was Jackie Dolby, and Miss Catherine Brandes was the adviser.

Senior Literature Club

"Spring Reigns," a collection of creative writing by the students, was published for the second time this year. Again it was successful, and the Literature Club hopes that the magazine will become an established tradition.

"Spring Reigns" was the main project of this club, but not the only one. A trip to Chicago to see a stage play, their annual spring picnic, and other activities high-lighted their get-togethers.

The officers were Lloyd Rudolph, president; Shirley Wilcox, vice-president; Vivian Lemke, secretary; and Don Spinner, treasurer. Miss Marjorie Stoffregen was adviser.

Verse Speaking

Verse speaking is one of the newest sophomore activities in Elgin High School. Its purpose is to do verse speaking as a group. At the meetings the students practice reading together, stressing the interpretation of the selections and emphasizing improvement in enunciation, pronunciation, and tone quality. The club appeared at the Girls Club assembly and the Freshman party. In the future they hope to make public appearances.

The officers were Jean Lawson, president; Jackie Muntz, vice-president; Marilyn Bridge, secretary; and Alice Thompson, treasurer. Miss Mabel Engelbrecht was sponsor.

Poetry Club

"I think that I shall never see
A poem as lovely as a tree."

The Poetry Club was organized this year to help the younger students enjoy and appreciate poems for their own amusement and for entertainment purposes in public.

One of the main objects of the Poetry Club has been to collect poems about the war.

Officers: president, Orra Mager; vice-president, Audrey Grupe; secretary-treasurer, Barbara Leitner; sponsor, Miss Mary Jane Frazier.

Mask and Bauble

To promote interest in the many phases of dramatic art and to participate with the E.H.S. Players in the production of the One-Acts: these are the two main purposes of this Fresh-Soph club, the Mask and Bauble.

Some very unique programs were presented this year: pantomimes and characterizations, as well as special features stressing original talents in the group.

Officers: president, Nancy Romeis; vice-president, Jean Lawson; secretary, Genevieve Newlin; treasurer, Marge Volmer; sponsors, Miss Helen Jocelyn and Miss Mabel Engelbrecht.

E.H.S. Players

"Friends, Romans, and countrymen, lend me your ears - -"

The E.H.S. Players and the Mask and Bauble presented the One-Acts this spring as has been the custom for many years.

The Players also sponsored a trip to Chicago to see the Broadway hit, "Oklahoma."

Scenes from various plays were given in the dramatics room at special meetings. A make-up crew was also formed.

Officers: Ralph Magden, president; Roberta Lawrence, vice-president; Marge McAllister, secretary; Elaine Nish, treasurer; Marge Biersach, sponsor.

Latin Club

The Latin Club, also well known as "Inter Nos," meaning "among ourselves," had Miss Irene Pielemeier as sponsor. The officers were Ray Barnhart, president; Dick Carlson, vice-president; Jean Lawson, secretary; and Robert McCoy, treasurer.

According to tradition, they initiate all new members at their first meetings. Discussions of Roman customs and the caroling of old Latin carols in the halls of E.H.S are the favorite activities of its members.

German Club

German Club

Through round table discussions, dramatic skits, talks, and singing songs, German Club members have accomplished their club's objective, which is to acquaint its members with people who have made contributions to the world in music, art, science, and literature.

Highlighted on the club's program this year was their annual Christmas dinner. The club also gave contributions to the servicemen's record fund and sang carols in the halls.

Officers were William Wilson, president; Mary Lane Hubbell, vice-president; Margaret Stumpf, secretary; Jere McGill, treasurer, and Miss Mabel Engelbrecht, sponsor.

French Club

The main project of the Le Cercle Francais this year has been the correspondence with an American soldier somewhere in Europe. All correspondence was done in French. The club also caroled during the Yuletide season and had a spring picnic.

The officers were Mary Lou Rohling, Joan Havercroft, Mary Lane Hubbell, and Miss Anne Craig, adviser.

"E" Club

athletic clubs

"E" Club

The mighty "E" club was organized for the purpose of promoting an interest in school athletics and in clean sportsmanship. Thus boys who have won "E's" have the acclamation and glory won not only by the letter itself but also from their qualifications as athletes for an organization which upholds athletic ability.

Ushering and operating a check-room at basketball games is part of the boys' yearly work.

Initiation of new members is held twice a year, in the spring and in the fall, so that boys are not kept waiting a long time after obtaining "E's" to join the club.

Officers: Karl Plath, president; Bud Roberts, vice-president; Bill Snellgrove, secretary; and Chuck Smith, sergeant-at-arms. Mr. Krafft was their adviser.

G.A.A.

The Girls Athletic Association, one of the largest organizations in E.H.S., was quite active this year. All girls interested in sports and the "ideals of health and sportsmanship" belong to this club.

Play Day and Awards Day made May the busiest month on the G.A.A. calendar. All the girls who had successfully completed the various tests of the State and National Association and all the girls who took an active part in the basket-shooting contest received awards.

Girls Science Club

Girls who are interested in doing experiments in chemistry and physics that can't be done in class belong to the Girls Science Club. Any girl who has had or is taking chemistry or physics may use this opportunity to further her knowledge in science.

This year the club sponsored a trip to the Museum of Science and Industry, opening this to all chemistry and physics students.

Officers: president, Phyllis Johnson; vice-president, Grace Szosz; secretary, Blanche Saxe; treasurer, Carolyn Hammeister, adviser, G. I. Renner.

Slide Rule

The Slide Rule Club is a voluntary organization of those students who realize the importance of learning all they can about math. Other students who have learned the use of the slide rule are now using it in work in defense plants and in the services.

The club did not elect any officers, but they did meet once each week. Miss Peters and Miss Wilson were the instructors.

Junior Izaak Walton

The Junior Izaak Walton League works to preserve wild life and create an interest in outdoor activities. The program consists of instructing boys in better living outdoors, of helping to protect all forms of outdoor life, of aiding in the conservation of the few natural resources we still have, and of teaching appreciation through knowledge.

The club again sponsored its annual tree-planting campaign, a project for which they have received deserved commendation.

The officers of the League were Palmer Brown, president; James Kramer, vice-president; and John Kramer, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Adams was the club adviser.

F.F.A.

The Future Farmers of America carried out a practical program this year in cooperation with the war effort. Their program was more extensive and more diversified than it ever has been, including the raising of sheep, dairy and beef cattle, swine, and poultry.

During the year they attended exhibits at fairs, and took part in a judging contest at the sectional conference at which they placed sixth in the grain division. They were hosts to a sectional public speaking contest in April.

The club, boasting 100% membership among the boys taking agriculture in school, selected the following officers: president, Richard Rockenbach; vice-president, Norman Fraas; secretary, Lowell Hill; treasurer, Clark Anderson; reporter, Thomas Hill, adviser, Harry Raplus.

"Efficiency" is the key-note in becoming a good typist, stenographer, bookkeeper, or any kind of office worker. All students who have such a common interest enjoy the Commercial Club meetings, at which one may hear speakers, take field trips, and make statistical studies of various businesses.

Another and very important part of the Commercial Club is the publication of the paper "The Business Whirl."

This year's officers are Shirley Lamp, president; Carol Sill, vice-president; Elvira Buckholtz, secretary-treasurer; and Mr. George Peck, sponsor.

During the times of the game when the boys are fighting their hardest, it is the yells that cheer them on to even greater effort. Without the cheerleaders, there would be no organized cheering to give the team the confidence they need. Besides leading yells at every basketball and football game, these leaders give time and energy for practice.

The cheerleaders were Eleanor Davis, Glenda Kilgore, Helen Pata, Virginia Johnson, Dorothy Miles, Pat McBride, Gene Westphal, Gloria Westbrook.

Prospects for a winning football combination weren't very bright at the beginning of the '43 season. There were no regulars back from last year's team, and the four remaining lettermen were the only nucleus for the team. After the season started this nucleus plus the other new material proved to be a winning combination.

The lack of reserve power was telling in several games. After losing the traditional Maine game, 6-0, the Maroon pig-skin pushers rallied by tipping the first three conference teams into the cellar position before dropping their first league game to East Aurora.

The injuries of Dick Stolt, the Maroon halfback, affected the team's success because Dick had triple threat duties. The team was at full strength in the final game against W. Rockford, conference champions, and did themselves proud by tying the champs in a rugged scoring battle, 19-19. Elgin was the only conference team that came near beating West Rockford in league competition.

Several members of the team made special recognition. Chuck Smith made all polls picking all-state teams as tackle; Stolt and Saucedo made honorable mention in all-state; Smith and Saucedo made first team all-conference, and Goldenstein and Mische made the second conference team; honorable mention was given to Stolt, Plath, and Goedert.

Elgin's frosh-soph team this year proved to be a very winning combination, ending the season with a record of five wins, one tie, and one loss. These Maroonettes had a high scoring punch which is proved by the fact that they averaged 20 points per game to their opponents 5.

The outstanding feature of the team was the fact that there were two squads of boys that received letters. This is significant because it means that twenty-two players had capabilities enough to earn letters. This promises a good team in the next few years.

The Elgin Varsity team started the season with one returning first string member, Captain Karl Plath. There were a number of lettermen, including six members of last year's tournament squad: Jack Burmaster, Sam Saucedo, Howard Kugath, Bill Myers, Bill Goedert, and Karl Plath. Jim Rager is a name that broke into the starting lineup after the season progressed, along with junior Tom Parker.

The first game with Glenbard, this year's suburban league champs, proved to be a close one; but we won 31-30. In the next four games Elgin looked very good, defeating New Trier, Hinsdale, Belvidere, and Morton by large margins.

The first conference game was one of the best of the season as we beat the powerful East Aurora quintet in a last quarter rally 49-47. Elgin came through again against the potent East Rockford five; but in the next game against underdog Joliet Elgin was handed a jolt — 39-37 — being beaten in the last minutes of play. The Maroons, playing good basketball, took the next two from West Aurora and Freeport.

When Elgin traveled down to East Aurora to play the questionable Aurora line-up, we suffered our worst defeat of the season, although the boys were fighting until the last basket. Elgin came back and won four in a row: LaSalle, revenge on Joliet, West Aurora, and Maine. When the Maroons went to Rockford, they met a team that was all set for them and were red hot whereas Elgin couldn't hit much of anything. Results: West Rockford—54, Elgin—39.

the krafft kids

As the state tournament began, Elgin took McHenry and Crystal Lake by large scores and won a scorcher from Dundee 44-42. In the sectionals, Elgin won over Sycamore with ease. In the finals against Proviso, Elgin played the best game of the year to beat a very good Proviso team 44-42.

In the first game down at Champaign, Elgin pulled a nip and tuck struggle out of the bag with a last minute basket and free throw by Bud Plath to beat Pekin 39 to 38. Anna-Jonesboro stuck with Elgin for half the game, but then Elgin got hot—especially Jim "Rip" Rager—to put the game on ice with a 65-38 count. The South Shore game was one of the best staged at the tournament with Elgin overcoming a large half-time deficit and putting on a stall in the last minute to win 48-47. Against Taylorville Elgin looked very good the first quarter, outscoring them 10-8. At the half Elgin was behind five points. The second half promised to be a good one, but Elgin came back "cold"; and when Jack Burmaster fouled out, we were sunk. Tournament outcome: Taylorville first, Elgin second, South Shore third, and Champaign fourth.

Elgin fans will never forget Bud Plath with his fighting spirit and winning buckets; Jim Rager and his beautiful long shots; Sam Saucedo with his wonderful ball handling, set up passes, and tricky short shots; Jack Burmaster, the rebound kid, who also made some very nice baskets and was a demon on defense; Howard Kugath, whose cool head and accurate shooting helped spell success for Elgin; Tom Parker whose lanky frame helped take down plenty of rebounds and put in a lot of tip-ins; and Bill "Moon" Goedert whose work at reserve guard very capably fill the shoes of an absent member.

frosh-soph basketball

The fellows that turned out for practice at the beginning of the season looked like a promising outfit. The first two games, however, didn't look so good although they were won by fairly large scores.

The team hit their stride against Hinsdale winning 42-18. The Frosh-Sophs played their best pre-conference game against Morton, which was a tough team to crack.

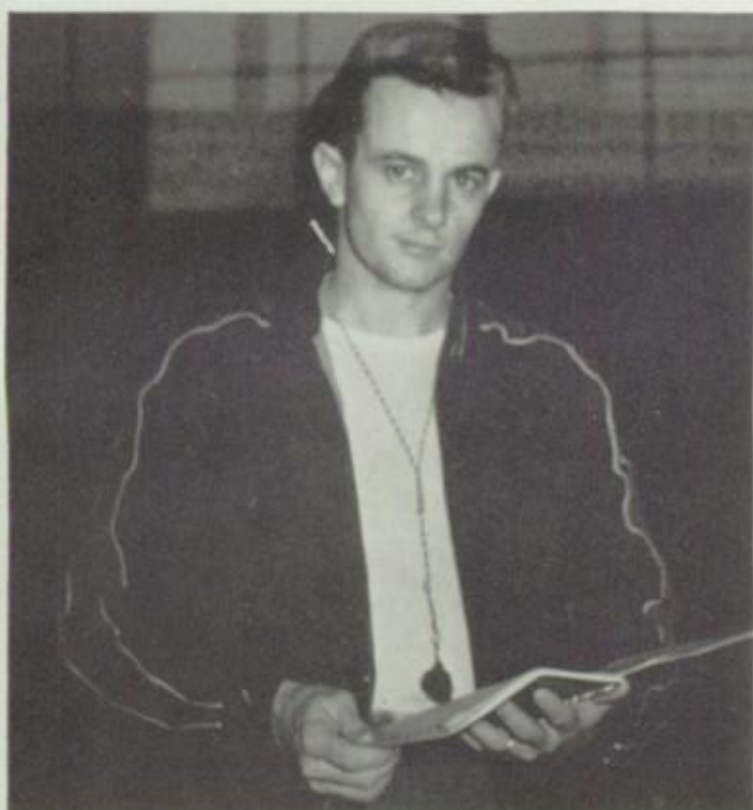

The nonexistent Big 8 Frosh-Soph League would have ended up with Elgin and West Rockford tied for first with a 7-2 rating. Elgin probably could have won clear title if the whole team hadn't graduated into the varsity.

These boys were good and in no time at all could pile up a big score and let the reserves carry on from there. Their ability, however, took no credit away from the second semester team, who were very capable but lacked experience and a little height.

Their losses to West Rockford and West Aurora would probably have been erased if these two factors were supplied. All

wrestling

This year's wrestling team proved to be a fairly successful aggregation. It won three matches and lost five, but this doesn't tell the full story. Several matches were lost only by a few points.

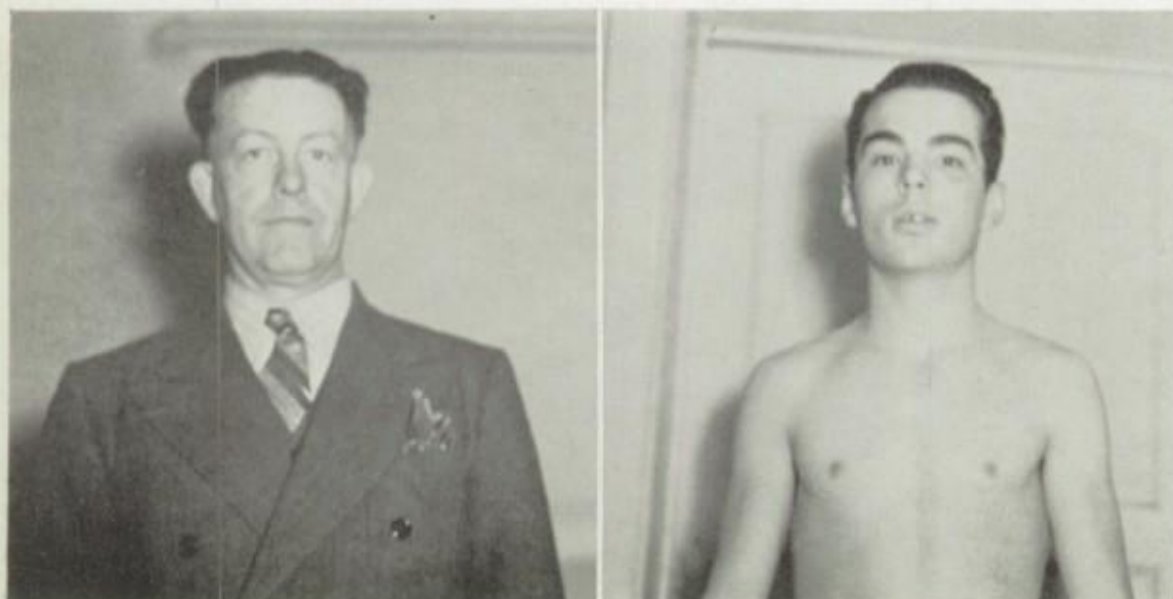

By far the most successful man on the squad was John Salisbury, who was captain. He won seven matches and lost one, scoring 31 points to his opponents 3.

Brother James improved as the season went along and finished very strong by placing second in the state meet at Champaign. He scored 29 points to 5.

Swenson, the 105-pounder, had a record of 13-14, and Kramer at 115 had a record of 13-22. At the 145-pound level Ed Franzen very capably filled Bud Roberts' shoes, ending the season with a 13-14 record after Roberts retired with a 3-3 score.

Shoop, with 0-11, and Goldenstein, with 5-11, wrestled 165. Brubaker, another successful first year man, ended the season with a 13-8 record.

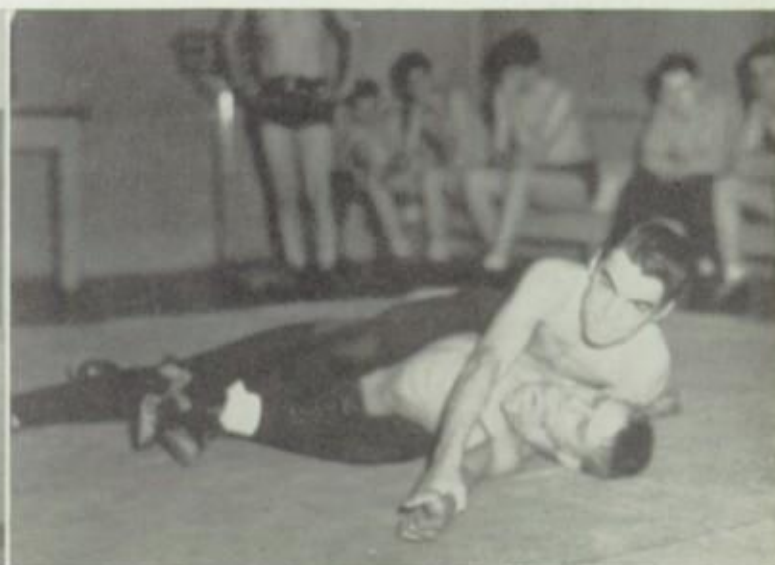

Madeen, the solution to the pressing 95-pound division problem, came through with a 3-6 record. Dick Stolt wrestled two heavyweight matches, winning both for a 10-0 rating.

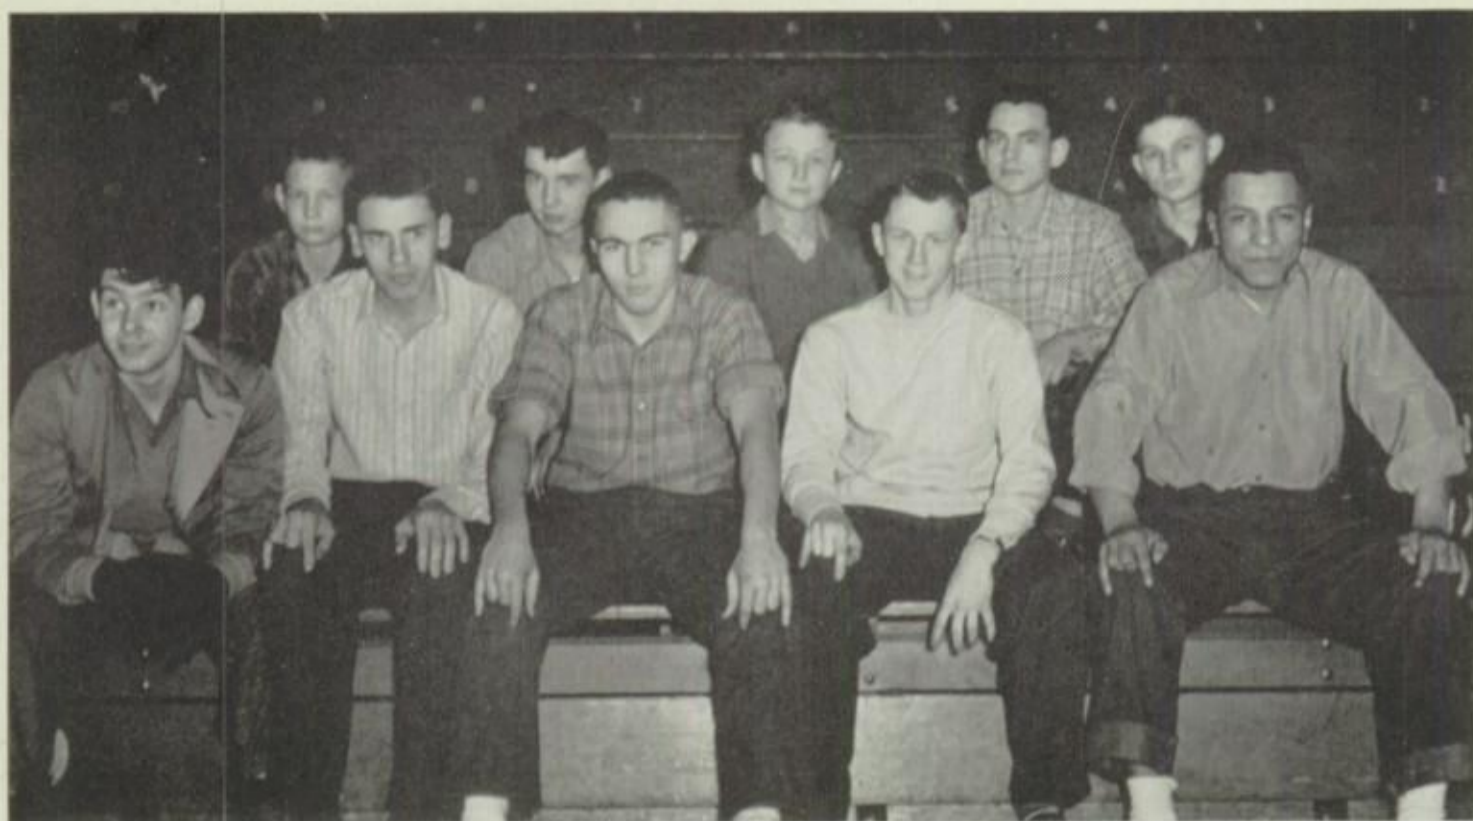

Coach Clifton Adams has hopes for a successful team next year.

tennis

Last spring's tennis squad finished the season with a 5-3 record. The squad, after the graduation of the previous year's great team with such members as Lindquist, Price, Livesay, and Strohm, was rather depleted but came through in great style.

Karl (Bud) Plath, playing number 1 singles, finished the season with a 7-4 record. Floyd Smith, first year man, came through against strong competition with a 6-3 standing. Jack Cossman, the steady number three man, had a record of 7-4.

The doubles team of Kugath and Boppre finished the season with 3-6 record. The second doubles team had several changes during the season. The following boys played: Stone 3-2, Saucedo 3-3, Rudolph 1-2, and Fretty 0-2. The team placed third at the district meet in Oak Park.

"Prospects for the coming year are rather bright," says Coach Renner as the Maroon goes to press April 1. All team members will be back except Boppre, Stone, and Fretty.

1943 Tennis Team

1943 Golf Team

golf

Last year's golf team got off to a slow start because of the lack of a coach. After this space was capably filled by John Hernandez, things progressed.

Elgin won the first match with Belvidere and lost the second. The meet with the Academy was played to a tie. At the district meet, Elgin placed fifth out of six.

Members of the squad were Andreasen, Woleben, Gerber, Bailey, Menke, and Roberts.

track

The track team of 1943 was highly successful. They won the Kane County meet for the third continuous year. They won their one and only duel meet, and captured a second in a triangular meet with a strong Oak Park team. Finally, they took second in the district meet, qualifying six men for the state finals.

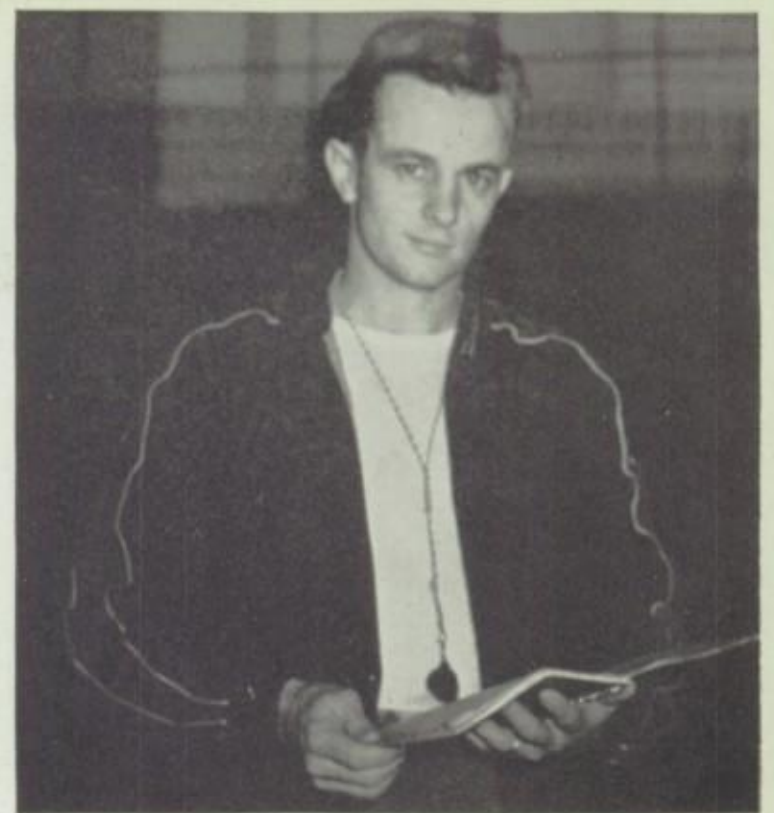

The six who went to State were Don Holtz, Cliff Nelson, Dick Stolt, and Captain Don Leuthold in the relay, and Ralph Fowler and Walter Rust in the pole vault. Rust ran in the relay for Stolt who received a bad back at the meet.

Outstanding seniors were Don Leuthold in the dashes and high jump, Dick Stolt in the dashes and hurdles, Don Holtz in the dashes, Cliff Nelson in the dashes, Eugene Termini in the high jump, and Walter Rust in the pole vault.

Returning this year are Ralph Fowler in the pole vault and hurdles, Chuck Smith and Bill Goedert in the weights, Ralph Andreason in the dashes, Jim O'Rourke in the distances, Loren Perkins in the dashes, and Don Turnquist in the distances.

One great loss to the team of 1944 will be Pete Kneipper, who has gone to the Armed Forces. Pete was an excellent hurdler and high jumper.

Much credit is due to Coach Chester Alexander, who took inexperienced material last year and made a smooth running team.

girls sports

The approach this year in girls extra-curricular sports was one that was in keeping with the war effort. Outside sports were brought into the regularly scheduled gym classes, made possible with more hours added to the required course.

The gym schedule was built around a program of calisthenics varied with dancing, basketball, volleyball, and baseball. At the end of the semester achievement tests were taken to determine each girl's athletic ability.

Eight weeks of basketball were followed by the Telegraphic Basketball Shooting Tournament sponsored by the Illinois League of Girls' Athletic Associations.

In this tournament Elgin placed fourth in the state with an average of 1.72 points. This average was better than that of last years team which won third place in state.

Miss Wilda Logan, assisted by Mrs. Krol, directed the classes through an interesting and varied athletic program.
